

Thomas Benfield, MD DTMH DMSc; November 16, 1965; USA

Department of Infectious Diseases
Hvidovre Hospital/University of Copenhagen
Kettegaard Alle 30
2650 Hvidovre, Denmark

Graduated University of Copenhagen in 1992

Current position: Professor - University of Copenhagen; Consultant – Department of Infectious Diseases, Hvidovre Hospital; Director of Clinical Research, Dept. of Infectious Diseases, Hvidovre Hospital; Assistant Editor, Danish Medical Journal

Professional career: Trained in internal medicine and infectious diseases in Copenhagen. Fellowship at Critical Care Medicine Dept., National Institute of Health, USA. Basic and clinical research within HIV / AIDS, hepatitis C, sepsis and pneumonia. Clinical and research focus on sepsis, pneumonia, hepatitis and HIV. Investigator and subinvestigator of clinical phase I-III trials of antiretrovirals, vaccines and more recently direct-acting antivirals for HCV. Clinical management of patients infected with sepsis, HIV, hepatitis B and C. Chaired phase I and II Data Safety Monitoring Boards.

Good Clinical Practice training: Janssen, MSD and the GCP Unit (<http://www.gcp-ehed.dk/en/forside/>)

Clinical Trial Experience: Primary and co-investigator of 9 investigator- and 29 industry-initiated trials within infectious diseases.

Steering committee member of NeXT Infectious Diseases.

Research group/leadership: Current PhD students: 4. Pregraduate research students: 2. Technician: 1. Statistician: 1. Past PhD students: 8. Past bachelor and graduate students: 23.

Research grants: Dkk. >10 million past five years.

Publications:

Research papers (PubMed: Benfield T): 152; Reviews: 16; Book chapters: 9, Other: 10; H-index: 40; M-factor: 1.90.